

Kevin and Alice Priessman's Whitetail Acres started out twenty years ago as a Christmas tree farm nestled in the fertile Indiana countryside near Brookville. It has since blossomed into a full service landscaping company, offering computerized landscape design, tree sales, landscape installation, landscape maintenance service, and of course, Christmas trees!

Professional Landscape Design Saves Time, Money

So you're finally building your dream home. Or maybe your home's present landscaping is overgrown or looks outdated. Maybe you have some idea of the look you want but are struggling to put it all together. Whitetail Acres is happy to help!

Our professional landscape design service is part technology, part artistry, and completely focused on reflecting your sense of style. We begin our design consultation (often in your own home) with a digital photograph of your property. We listen carefully as you answer our questions about your personal taste and project budget. Together, we design your project, selecting elements for color and texture. Your design can include hardscape elements, like decorative rocks and pavers, water features such as fountains and small ponds, and special concerns like privacy solutions and erosion control. We then load the digital image into our computer and let you see how your completed design will actually look. You then have two options for making your landscaping dream a reality:

a) Use your computer-generated design printout and plant list/instructions to install your own project as time and budget allows; or

b) Allow our professional installation team to install your design, either all at once, or in phases, depending on your budget.

Whichever you choose, our professional landscaping design service eliminates costly mistakes in plant selection and placement, and ensures you'll have the look you want. And design fees may be deducted from the cost of your plant purchases.
